MESSAGE FROM OUR LEADERS

It has been a momentous year at SickKids — a year in which we launched not only the historic SickKids VS Limits Campaign, but a number of bold new initiatives and partnerships that will transform the future of child health here at SickKids, across Ontario, and beyond.

A few examples include: our integration with the Hincks-Dellcrest Centre to create the SickKids Centre for Community Mental Health, the launch of Kids Health Alliance focused on extending a continuum of excellent care across Ontario, a hospital-wide reduction in preventable harm through our Caring Safely initiative, and our new electronic health information system.

These achievements would not have been possible without the ingenuity of our people, and the support of government, our partners, and all of you, our generous community of donors.

Building the SickKids of the future is going to take all our effort, and we are heartened by the tremendous support we have witnessed over the past year. Before our official launch in October, a very special group of 110 donors — our Catalyst Donors — had already committed a minimum of $1 million each to the Campaign. Over the months of November and December, we asked 5,000 new monthly donors to join us and 6,479 signed up. By year-end, more than 500,000 donors had answered our rallying cry, SickKids VS All In, coming together to help us raise a record-breaking $146.3 million this year alone.

In March 2018, the Province’s formal commitment to support the transformation of our campus is a welcome boost to the momentum of our collective drive to shatter the limits of outdated facilities. But our fight isn’t over. Many battles remain and we cannot waver in our mission to re-imagine our campus, continue breakthrough research, and partner for better care.

Through this Annual Report we take a moment to pause and celebrate the advances we are making and the donors, like you, who are helping to make them possible. We hope they serve as inspiration for the work that lies ahead.
SickKids Foundation is committed to the highest standards of accountability and transparency.

We were among the first nationally accredited charities under Imagine Canada’s Standards Program.

INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT AND PHILOSOPHY

The SickKids Foundation Board of Directors manages endowed funds with assistance from the Board’s Investment Committee using a long-term, value-oriented investment philosophy. The Investment Committee monitors the performance of the Investment Managers. The goal is to attain an average annual real total return (net of investment managers’ fees, after Consumer Price Index) of at least five per cent over a five-year period, and also to be in the top 25 per cent of the RBC Investor Services survey.

SickKids is committed to operational efficiency, transparency and accountability. We support evidence-based decisions to enhance our financial health, conduct business under the principle of fiscal prudence, and act with integrity and good judgment when allocating resources. The Hospital continues to maintain its financial health. In 2017/18, the Hospital had an operating surplus of $183,000. At March 31, 2018, the Hospital had total assets of $1.9 billion. Excess of revenues over expenses contribute positively to the Hospital’s net assets, which are then reserved for specific purposes or reinvested into operations and capital investments aligned with the Hospital’s strategic priorities. INFINITE POSSIBILITIES

WITH THE LAUNCH OF THE SICKKIDS VS LIMITS CAMPAIGN, UNRESTRICTED GIVING HAS NEVER BEEN MORE IMPORTANT.
ON OCTOBER 27, 2017, WE OFFICIALLY LAUNCHED THE $1.3 BILLION SICKKIDS VS LIMITS CAMPAIGN – THE LARGEST IN CANADIAN HEALTH-CARE HISTORY.

Slated to run until March 2022, the campaign supports three priority areas: re-imagining our campus, including building a new patient care centre on University Avenue ($600 million); continuing breakthrough research ($600 million); and establishing partnerships for better patient care ($100 million).

Our goals are ambitious, but necessary. To unleash our full potential, we have to overcome the limits of today—outdated facilities, translating knowledge to new models of care, and creating a more seamless system to support the health needs of children. And we can only do so by being bold.

We are particularly grateful to those donors who have chosen to make an unrestricted gift. More than 288,000 donors chose to make such a gift in the last year. Their collective contributions helped us reach a high water mark for unrestricted giving of 47 per cent of total funds raised, and gave us the flexibility to respond to where the needs are greatest.

Blake and Rita Wallace are two of them. The philanthropic powerhouse couple gave a $100,000 unrestricted donation because they wanted to support the full breadth of campaign priorities.

“We really responded to the overall imperative: to build a better hospital and support game-changing research,” says Rita. “We wanted to be a part of all of it. And we had the faith and confidence in SickKids to know how to best use our funds to realize that vision.”

Because unrestricted gifts mean the donor places no constraints on how the funds are used, SickKids has unlimited flexibility to quickly deploy resources to the areas of greatest need, and greatest promise. Over the past year, this meant investing in institution-wide initiatives like Program Dose, which will ensure kids get the right drugs at the right time. It meant funding innovation like the work of our Centre for Genetic Medicine, which is using genomic sequencing to better diagnose and understand rare diseases. And it meant supporting cutting-edge research, like Social Worker-Scientist Dr. Samantha Anthony's efforts to improve the quality of life of paediatric transplant patients.

As we look to the future, unrestricted giving will continue to be the engine that powers the transformation of our facilities, research enterprise, and partnerships. It’s what gives us the ability to be nimble in the moment and strategic over the long-term. And it’s why we need at least 40 per cent of all campaign funds raised to be unrestricted.

We are deeply grateful to donors like Blake and Rita for giving us the ability to have an unlimited impact.

“SickKids is more than just a hospital—it’s a pillar of the Toronto community,” says Blake. “SickKids was there for our children and grandchildren when they needed it. And we want to make sure it’s there for all the other kids who’ll need it, too.”
LINDT SWINGS FOR SICKKIDS

AN ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT TO UPGRADE CRITICAL EQUIPMENT
ON THE IMMACULATELY MANICURED GREENS OF THE KING VALLEY GOLF CLUB, JUST A 70-MINUTE DRIVE FROM DOWNTOWN TORONTO, 144 golfers played in the sold-out, 11th Annual Lindt Chocolate Masters tournament in support of SickKids. Surrounded by lush forests, golfers snacked on Beavertails, maple cheese, ice cream pops and, of course, Lindt chocolates. Two players even got to try their luck at the Mercedes Benz Hole-in-One contest, attempting to hit the ball to the green — with hockey gloves on — for the chance to win a signed Vancouver Canucks jersey. And although most players opted to skip the 18th hole after a sudden downpour, everyone raved about the event. Better yet, the tournament far surpassed its fundraising goal, netting $300,000 for critical equipment at SickKids.

“A modern hospital needs modern equipment,” says Rudi Blatter, President and CEO of Lindt & Sprüngli (Canada) and SickKids Campaign Cabinet Member. “And better machines mean better care.”

Lindt’s support for critical equipment has taken many forms, from traditional corporate gifts to its national cause marketing campaigns, which raised an impressive $50,000 last year. (In-store customers are encouraged to make a minimum donation of $2 to their local children’s hospital in exchange for a three-pack of Lindor milk chocolate.) And it’s already making a major impact.

Using funds raised by the international chocolate company, SickKids modernized its outdated orthopaedic operating suite in 2017. The new space, renamed the Lindt & Sprüngli Orthopaedic Operating Suite, is brighter, better equipped and more spacious — critical for orthopaedic operations, which, require plenty of specialized tools and equipment. New technologies have also vastly improved surgical training.

For example, a small camera embedded in the handle of the main overhead lamp allows surgeons to broadcast a bird’s-eye view of live procedures for observing trainees.

Later that same year, SickKids — with the help of a $1.5 million commitment from Lindt & Sprüngli — purchased a Positron emission tomography and computerized tomography (PET/CT) scanner, a state-of-the-art diagnostic machine. Since the scanner was installed in the second floor diagnostics unit at SickKids in December, its effect has been immediate and significant, particularly for young cancer patients, for whom early and accurate diagnosis means everything. The machine also offers a smoother, safer experience, and notably less radiation exposure than older models.

“Just one scanner made a huge difference,” says Blatter. “Now imagine the possibilities of a fully re-imagined SickKids campus — that’s the future.”
BETTER TOGETHER

CAMH AND SICKKIDS JOIN FORCES TO FIGHT FOR MENTAL HEALTH

SickKids patient, Ruby.
IN 2014, DONORS GAIL AND DAVID O’BRIEN SAW A NEED.

Demand for child and youth mental health services in Ontario was surging, but the province lacked the resources to deal with it. Kids were falling through the cracks.

“That’s why David and I were inspired to give,” says Gail O’Brien. “We wanted to help lift up the next generation of mental health specialists, to ensure no child went untreated.”

Their gift was as unique as it was generous: $1.5 million to establish the O’Brien Scholars Program in Child and Youth Mental Health, part of a larger partnership between SickKids and the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH) to improve system-wide mental health-care in Ontario.

Over the course of five years, the program has funded early-career clinician-scientists at both CAMH and SickKids, with the goal of building the next generation of child and youth mental health-care leaders. And today’s current crop of O’Brien scholars are already making waves.

Dr. Meng-Chuan Lai, an assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry at University of Toronto, is working to understand how sex, gender, and related factors influence mental health risk and resilience.

Dr. Stephanie Ameis, the inaugural O’Brien Scholar in Child and Youth Mental Health, spearheaded the first-ever brain imaging study looking at brain structures in children with ADHD, autism spectrum disorder, and obsessive-compulsive disorders, and comparing them to children without a mental illness.

Dr. Daphne Korczak, a paediatrician and psychologist and Director of Paediatric Resident and Subspecialty Training in Psychiatry at SickKids, is leading the first randomized trial of a suicide prevention intervention for youth in Canada.

They, along with the four other O’Brien-funded scholars, are driving high-impact research which will help children fight mental illness to realize their full potential.

“About one in five children have a serious mental health challenge of one sort or another,” says Dr. Peter Szatmari, Chief of the Child and Youth Mental Health Collaborative between SickKids and CAMH. “70 per cent of all adult mental health challenges start in childhood. So if we want to make a difference, we’ve got to start early.”

“Not only are these fellows incredibly committed, they’re big-picture thinkers, making connections across disciplines that will have an enormous impact,” says David.

In fact, the O’Briens were so impressed that they made another donation — an additional $650,000 to continue and broaden the program.

HOW ‘FASHION HEALS FOR SICKKIDS’ IS SPURRING ADVANCEMENTS IN PAEDIATRIC BRAIN TUMOUR TREATMENT

STEWN, A FORMER SICKKIDS PATIENT AND HODGKINS LYMPHOMA SURVIVOR, STRODE ACROSS THE RUNWAY IN A LONG GREY SCARF AND AN ARMY JACKET FLECKED WITH YELLOW, RED, AND WHITE PAINT.

Hope, a SickKids Down syndrome patient, walked hand-in-hand with her father, dressed in a dove-grey dress and blue jean jacket with the collar up.

Emily, a SickKids cystic fibrosis patient, smiled as she walked with her hand on her hip, wearing a tan suede bomber jacket and a high-waisted, denim-wrapped skirt.

All three models were stars of the 4th Annual Fashion Heals for SickKids event on February 7, a sold-out fashion show in support of the Hospital’s Innovation Grant for paediatric cancer research and care. Hosted by Toronto radio personalities Blake Carter (of 93-5 The Move) and Stu Jeffries (of boom 97.3), the night featured performances by the Canadian Opera Company and a Q & A with CP24’s Pooja Handa. But Fashion Heals founder and co-chair Elke Rubach says that, in spite of the abundance of celebrities and performers, the focus was on the kids.

“Fashion Heals is a night where SickKids patients and families can forget about illness,” says Elke. “It’s a celebration, a night where they can share the runway with other patients and families and the SickKids staff who helped them heal.”

For many of those kids, it was also an opportunity to say thanks.

“I would not be where I am today without their help,” says Stefan, now 25 and working as a digital marketer. “I want to do anything within my ability to give back.”

With the help of supporters like Stefan, to date Fashion Heals has raised over $250,000 for SickKids, and the organizers have pledged to surpass $1 million in donations in the next five years.

Funds raised from this past event are now supporting the work of Dr. Cynthia Hawkins, a SickKids researcher focused on better understanding and treating paediatric brain tumours. Through studying various genetic mutations, Dr. Hawkins has developed tests to match treatments to mutations. This targeted approach allows patients with less aggressive tumours to take pills instead of undergoing intensive chemotherapy, which is more toxic and causes more side effects.

“I WOULD NOT BE WHERE I AM TODAY WITHOUT THEIR HELP... I WANT TO DO ANYTHING WITHIN MY ABILITY TO GIVE BACK.”

“Now they can go home and take a pill and they don’t feel sick from it,” says Dr. Hawkins. These tests are also being adopted by hospitals around the country and across the world. And those unable to do the testing in-house often send their samples to SickKids, which, Dr. Hawkins says, has the necessary equipment thanks to donors like Fashion Heals. “These funds are literally changing the way we care for patients.”

QUALITY IMPROVEMENT PLAN INDICATORS

Our Quality Improvement Plan (QIP), which outlines our quality and safety priorities, represents our commitment to ensuring the care and services we provide are accessible, effective, safe, patient-centred, and promote an integrated health system. In accordance with the Excellent Care for All Act, we post our QIP publicly and submit it to the provincial government so they can improve care across the health system. Data reported is based on calendar year (January to December 2017). To see the 2017-18 progress report, visit www.sickkids.ca/qip.

Healthier Children. A Better World.™ is a vision everyone at SickKids shares. And it will continue to guide us as we look to the future of SickKids. By working together and with our partners in the community, we can lead transformational change that will improve the lives of children everywhere and create a better world for all of us.
