

HANNAH: Welcome to the SickKids VS Podcast. I'm your host, Hannah Bank. Join me as we speak candidly to world experts, patients, and families about big breakthroughs in child health.

This season, find out how a scientist delivers the world's first gene therapy for one child's rare disease;

Jim Dowling I think there was a feeling of historicness to the process that we are doing something now, that could have a real impact not just on

Michael, but could be setting a paradigm for other clinical work moving forward.

HANNAH: Hear about the science behind the healing powers of music therapy;

Nicole: I don't think I ever truly had a good understanding of what music therapy was or how it could truly impact a child. Once we started, I was like, wow, this is a gamechanger.

HANNAH: Listen to a team talk about how they support families with the daily stresses of childhood cancer;

Dennis: The impact of illness...leaves a lot of families without any resources. I've seen a lot of people get broke because of the expenses that they go through every single day.

HANNAH: These big breakthroughs and more incredible stories on the SickKids VS Podcast.
