HANNAH BANK: Most big breakthroughs start with a simple question. In the new season of SickKids VS, we take you behind the scenes of remarkable stories wherein each episode researchers ask questions like: Can we heal the brain?

DR. DON MABBOTT: If we complete this trial and we see improved memory, that would be huge because we haven't seen this before in other paediatric injuries and illnesses.

HANNAH: Or questions like: How should we talk to kids about dying?

SHAINDY ALEXANDER: It's really important to talk about life and death, starting at a young age. And kids will understand it differently at different ages and they'll have different questions, different wonders, at different times.

HANNAH: And what can doctors do when a child's disease remains unknown—for years?

DR. RAE YEUNG: And we knew we had to get to the bottom of it because it was tremendously affecting his life.

HANNAH: This is SickKids VS, where we take you to the frontlines in the fight for child health. Sponsored by CIBC. Season 3 starts May 4th. Subscribe now.
